

Court 101

By Baroness Meabh ingen Carthaig

When a court procession is heralded for a King/Queen, Prince/Princess, Baron/Baroness or all the above, stand up, bow in Their Presence as They pass, sit when They bid you take your ease. Of course, physical limitations are considered if you cannot stand, just bow your head if possible. If you get called in, don't panic. No one gets called into court for something bad. Someone probably has asked that you be acknowledged for something good you have done. Remove any blades you may be carrying and proceed to stand before the thrones. Bow before taking a knee or bench before those that have called you into court. Upon leaving, bow again and step back a couple steps before turning back to your seat. When bowing, you acknowledge from the highest ranking to the lowest. If you don't know, just bow to the middle thrones then bow to the others. It's all about showing respect.
